Everyday Horses is the brainchild of a compassionate and dedicated team led by Amy Edwards. Driven by a deep love for horses and a desire to make a difference, they established the sanctuary in 2015. Since then, they have welcomed over 100 horses, each with their own unique story and a longing for a better life.

The horses at Three Sisters Farm come from diverse backgrounds. Some were once beloved companions who, through no fault of their own, found themselves abandoned or neglected. Others were retired racehorses or show horses, their bodies carrying the scars of their athletic endeavors. Together, they form a diverse and resilient herd, united by their shared experiences and their newfound sanctuary.

Exceptional Care and Unwavering Compassion

At Everyday Horses, the well-being of the horses is paramount. The team provides exceptional care, ensuring that each animal receives the attention and support they need to thrive. Regular veterinary check-ups, nutritious meals, and a spacious pasture where they can roam freely are just a few of the amenities that make up their daily lives.

Beyond their physical needs, Everyday Horses also focuses on the emotional and mental well-being of the horses. They create a calm and stress-free environment, where the horses can heal from past traumas and build trust with their human caregivers. Through gentle interactions, compassionate communication, and a deep understanding of horse behavior, the team works diligently to foster a sense of security and belonging for all the horses under their care.

Transformative Journeys, Unforgettable Legacies

The horses at Three Sisters Farm are not merely residents; they are cherished members of the Everyday Horses family. Each horse has a unique story to tell, a journey that has led them to this sanctuary. Their stories are filled with moments of triumph, resilience, and heartwarming connections.

Take for instance, Gracie, a gentle mare who arrived at the farm with severe laminitis, a debilitating hoof condition. Through expert veterinary care and the unwavering dedication of the Everyday Horses team, Gracie's hooves slowly healed, allowing her to regain her mobility and experience the joy of running and playing once more.

Or consider the story of Max, a former racehorse who had suffered multiple injuries on the track. At Everyday Horses, Max found solace and companionship in the company of other retired racehorses. He taught them the ropes of pasture life, leading them to water and sharing his favorite grazing spots. Max's presence became a symbol of hope and resilience, inspiring the other horses and reminding them that even after the races were over, life could still be filled with purpose and joy.

Beyond Sanctuary: The Impact of Everyday Horses

The work of Everyday Horses extends far beyond the boundaries of their farm. Through their unwavering commitment to horse welfare, they have become a beacon of hope and a catalyst for change in the equine community.

The sanctuary serves as a sanctuary not only for horses but also for people. Visitors from all walks of life come to Three Sisters Farm to witness the transformative power of human-animal connection. They learn about the importance of animal welfare, responsible horse ownership, and the profound impact that horses can have on our lives.

Everyday Horses also actively engages in rescue and rehabilitation efforts, working alongside other equine organizations to provide assistance to horses in need. They offer educational programs and workshops, sharing their knowledge and expertise with the broader community. Through their dedication and unwavering compassion, they are making a lasting difference in the lives of horses and humans alike.

A Place Where Hearts Connect
