- Reading (60 minutes)

- Writing and Language (35 minutes)
- Math (70 minutes)

The Reading section consists of 47 multiple-choice questions based on four reading passages. The passages are typically taken from classic and contemporary literature, history, science, and social studies.

The Writing and Language section consists of 44 multiple-choice questions that test your grammar, usage, and mechanics. The questions are based on a variety of texts, including editorials, speeches, and essays.

The Math section consists of 48 multiple-choice questions and 17 student-produced response questions. The multiple-choice questions cover a range of topics, including algebra, geometry, and trigonometry. The student-produced response questions require you to show your work and explain your reasoning.

The PSAT/NMSQT is scored on a scale of 320 to 1520. The Reading and Writing and Language sections are each scored on a scale of 160 to 760, and the Math section is scored on a scale of 160 to 800.

Your PSAT/NMSQT score will be reported to you in three ways:

- Selection Index (SI): The SI is a single number that represents your overall performance on the exam. The SI is calculated by adding your Reading and Math scores.
- Percentile Rank (PR): The PR is a number that indicates how you performed compared to other PSAT/NMSQT test takers. For example, a PR of 80 means that you scored better than 80% of other test takers.

- National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Score (NMSQT): The NMSQT is a score that is used to determine eligibility for the National Merit Scholarship Program. The NMSQT is calculated by adding your Reading, Writing and Language, and Math scores.

Here are some tips to help you prepare for and ace the PSAT/NMSQT:

- Start studying early. The PSAT/NMSQT is a challenging exam, so it's important to start studying early. Begin by familiarizing yourself with the test format and scoring.
- Take practice tests. Practice tests are a great way to assess your strengths and weaknesses and identify areas where you need to improve. The College Board offers free practice tests on its website.
- Review your mistakes. After you take a practice test, take some time to review your mistakes. This will help you identify the types of questions that you are struggling with and develop strategies for improvement.
- Focus on your strengths. Everyone has their own strengths and weaknesses. Focus on your strengths and use them to your advantage on the PSAT/NMSQT.
- Get a good night's sleep before the exam. Getting a good night's sleep before the exam will help you stay alert and focused during the test.
- Eat a healthy breakfast on the day of the exam. Eating a healthy breakfast will give you the energy you need to perform your best on the exam.
